

ABSTRACT

A method is provided for producing glass. A calcium magnesium silicate is used to replace some or all of magnesium oxide being used as an aid to reduce the use of boron during glass batch operations. Reduced batch-free times and operating temperatures are additional benefits.